EXCELLENCY THE LIEUTENANT GOVERNOR, and ordered by the COUNCIL to be printed,
21st March, 1855.

By Authority:

JOHN FERRES, GOVERNMENT PRINTER, MELBOURNE.

REPORT.

Registrar General's Office,
6th March, 1855.

SIR,

I have the honor to transmit herewith the returns of the population of Victoria, as ascertained by the Census taken on the 26th of April, 1854.

2. It is much to be regretted that so much time has elapsed in their preparation, but the delay has been unavoidable. Many of the 45,880 schedules were almost as difficult to decipher as an Egyptian inscription; not to mention the Chinese returns, for which recourse was had to a translator, and a laborious and careful revision of the whole was essential to the correctness of the abstracts. This important task has devolved upon an extremely limited staff, which, under existing circumstances, the Government has not felt itself justified in augmenting at an additional cost to the public; nor indeed, as it turned out, would any such increase have materially expedited the period of submitting this report, inasmuch as the schedules for the City of Melbourne were not received from the Town Clerk's Office until the middle of December.

3. The forms adopted in digesting the information contained in those schedules, have been, generally, those which the experience acquired in successive enumerations of the people in Great Britain led the Commissioners for taking the Census of 1851 to devise as best calculated to exhibit in a lucid and comprehensive manner, the numbers, ages, and condition of the inhabitants. It was, moreover, considered advisable, on this occasion, to comply with the expressed desire of scientific men at home, that the statistics of every part of the Empire should be drawn up on one uniform plan.

4. The series of tables now presented, is designed to shew:—

1st. The population of the counties and of the pastoral districts, indicating the estimated area of each, and the quantity of Crown Lands which have been alienated.

2nd. The population of the existing Electoral Districts.

3rd. The population of the Electoral Provinces of the Legislative Council, as defined under the New Constitution Act.

4th. That of the Electoral Districts of the Legislative Assembly, as defined by the same Act.

5th. The population of the Gold Fields.

6th. That of the Seaport Towns.

7th. The distribution of the inhabitants in the Seaport Towns, and the Rural and Mining Districts of the Colony.

8th. Comprises a list of Towns and Villages, the population of which appeared to be of sufficient importance to deserve separate mention. After these follow—

9th. Returns in detail of the Ages of the People in the several Counties.

10th. In the present Electoral Districts.

11th. In the Electoral Provinces for the New Legislative Council; and 12th. Of those for the New Legislative Assembly.

5. It is intended that these returns shall be succeeded as early as practicable by a series which will shew the social condition of the people, namely, whether married, unmarried, widowers, or widows, their religion, education, and the country of their birth.

6. As it is probable that I may be expected to offer some remarks as to the degree of reliance which should be placed on these Census Returns, I would here take leave to observe, that although, as in other countries, notwithstanding the most carefully devised arrangements, omissions may no doubt have occurred, yet, after mature consideration, I have arrived at the conclusion, that taking them altogether, and after making due allowance for such probable omissions, these latter cannot materially affect the general results, and, consequently, that the returns may be received as substantially correct. It is true that numerous complaints of neglect on the part of some of the sub-enumerators have appeared in the public press, but in several instances where the locality alluded to could be traced, it was found upon enquiry either that those complaints had originated in misapprehension—the information required to be given in the schedules supposed to have been neglected, having been, in fact, returned by other parties—or that the schedules, which had in the first instance been accidentally overlooked, had been subsequently recovered.

7. This opinion of the general fidelity of the returns is much strengthened by applying to them as a rough test the numbers of the population shewn by the Census of 1851, corrected by the subsequent monthly returns of the Immigration Agent. Thus, the population according to the Census of 1851 was 77,345

Accordingly it will be seen that as the population of the Colony on the 2nd March, 1851, was 77,345 persons, and as the excess in the number of immigrants arrived over the number of persons who had departed by sea was 138,274, the population remaining on the 26th April, 1854, would be only 215,619. The Census taken on that day returns the actual number ascertained at 236,798, the difference of 21,179 persons being fairly assignable to an increase arising from undetected arrivals by sea and overland, and from the probable excess of births over deaths during the intervening two years. I may here observe that, of this last element, we have no data on which it is possible to found any safe calculations; the present system of registration in this Colony having only commenced in 1853.

8. It would be difficult for a person unacquainted with the subject to form any idea of the obstacles which have to be overcome in a new country in taking the Census of a population irregularly spread over an area of about 90,000 square miles, or about the size of England, Wales, and Ireland united, devoid for the most part of public roads, and traversed in every direction by innumerable tracks and by-ways, and in some parts absolutely impracticable for travellers: a remarkable instance of which was experienced in Gipps' Land, where the sub-enumerator, in his journey from Sale to the neighbourhood of Cape Howe to distribute the Census schedules, was actually compelled to leave the Colony, and to cross over a portion of the territory of New South Wales in order to reach his district. These natural difficulties were in no small degree enhanced by the prejudice which unfortunately existed in the minds of many of the uneducated portion of the community against what was conceived to be an inquisitorial proceeding, and by the unsettled habits of a large body of the people perpetually on the move from one gold field to another by various routes, and whom it was exceedingly difficult to overtake. The absence of recent and complete maps was also much felt.

9. The Act 17 Victoria, No. 9, for taking an account of the population of the Colony of Victoria, received the Royal Assent on the 1st March, 1854, and the Census was therein directed to be taken on the 26th of April following. It was during this brief interval of eight weeks that the forms of Householders' Schedules were to be prepared and printed, the enumerators to be appointed by the Lieutenant Governor, the sub-enumerators to be selected by those officers and reported for His Excellency's approval, the rates of their remuneration and allowance for travelling expenses to be fixed, and, above all, the boundaries of their respective districts to be clearly defined. This proved to be no easy matter to arrange so as to prevent double returns, or no returns at all being made, in consequence of the absence of definite limits to some of the police districts; an embarrassment which was further increased by the circumstance of official changes occurring among the police magistrates on the very eve of the day appointed for taking the Census. Before, however, these essential preliminaries could be settled, and the machinery brought into working order, the rains in various parts of the country set in at an earlier period than usual, thus adding considerably to the existing difficulties as well as to the expense to be incurred in the transmission of the blank householders' schedules to the more distant enumerators, and rendering it necessary in some instances to forward them on horseback to their destination. The total cost of this Census may be estimated at about £11,000.

10. Under all circumstances, however, of human affairs, when an energetic determination exists to discharge a public duty, success more or less perfect will ever be found to reward the exertions made to overcome difficulties, and on this occasion the zeal and activity displayed by the various officers employed were eventually attended with the desired result.

11. The various forms of schedules recently employed in the United Kingdom were adapted by Mr. Archer, Assistant Registrar General, to the circumstances and requirements of the Colonial Census. The Colony was divided into 26 districts, each of which was placed under the charge of an Enumerator. The time allowed was obviously too limited to admit of making enquiries for a reliable selection of these officers from among parties disposed to engage in this service, especially in the bush districts, and no other resource appearing to remain, the Government adopted the course of employing the Police Magistrates. An exception was made in the instance of the City of Melbourne, where it was considered that the Town Clerk, from having official access to the assessment rolls, would have it in his power to exercise a more efficient supervision over the schedules collected by his sub-enumerators. One hundred and ninety-four sub-enumerators were employed; they were engaged upon the best terms that could be obtained at that time; the rate of remuneration varying according to the facility or difficulty experienced in finding men and horses, and the nature of the country they had to traverse, whether easy of access, thinly or densely settled, or of a wild and extensive character; but in many places the services of none but the mounted police could be obtained, except upon such extravagant terms as were quite inadmissible. Endeavours were also made to strengthen what it was easily foreseen would be a weak point in this arduous undertaking, by stationing agents upon the main thoroughfares to the gold fields, in order to ascertain the number of travellers, and some of the persons thus employed contrived to obtain not only the numbers but the ages of parties on the road: this success, however, was by no means general.

12. Although the circumstances and population of the two countries admit of no fair comparison being attempted to be drawn as to the details of the service, it may not be amiss to mention here, that in Great Britain alone, with all its abundant facilities and appliances arising from well-known territorial subdivisions, and its host of union, parochial, and registration officers, all perfectly acquainted with their districts, considerably more than 43,300 persons, besides clerks, messengers, &c., are stated to have been employed in taking the Census of 1851, in addition to the Registrar General's official staff in London. By means of this machinery skilfully directed, a rough summary of the returns was presented to Parliament before the close of the session of 1851; but upwards of two years elapsed before the first correct abstract of the numbers of the inhabitants and houses were published, and the series is not yet completed.

13. Pending the distribution and subsequent collection of the schedules by the sub-enumerators, their correction of errors and omissions by the enumerators, and their final transmission to this office, it became the duty of the Assistant Registrar General (Mr. Archer) and myself, to organise a staff of competent persons for the reduction of the data thus to be obtained, into a tabular form, to provide the requisite books, offices, and materials, and to prescribe the general course of procedure. From a considerable number of eligible candidates, three gentlemen were selected whose acquirements and previous habits appeared to render them qualified to undertake a task requiring no small exercise of discrimination and patient labor. This small party was placed under the charge of Mr. Francis A. Corbett, and I gladly avail myself of this opportunity of bringing under notice the talent and assiduity displayed by that gentleman and his coadjutors. The returns which accompany this report are the result of their protracted labors, and I now proceed to notice some of the more interesting statistical facts which they exhibit.

14. The total number of persons of all ages ascertained to have been in the Colony of Victoria on the 26th April, 1854, was 236,798, of whom 155,876 were males, and 80,900 females; there were 22 persons whose sex was not returned.

15. The great disproportion between the numbers of the sexes, being 193 males to every 100 females, can scarcely fail to attract the attention of the Legislature; the proportion of the previous Census having been 143 males to 100 females. The result will not be materially affected if we deduct the young people under 15 years of age from the total population, the ages of this class being respectively 30,996 males and 30,383 females. A remarkable exception to the general result occurred at Belfast and at Portland, where the females outnumbered the males by 15 and 60 respectively; this was attributable in some measure to recent arrivals of ships with female immigrants.

16. The ages of the people will be found to be:—From 15 to 45 years, 103,292 males, and 45,403 females; 45 years and upwards, 12,156 males, and 4,174 females. The ages of 10,272 persons, principally travellers on the gold fields, were not specified. The population under 20 years of age amounted to 39,688 males, and 37,596 females.

17. It may be useful to those who are engaged in the discussion of the educational question to state that the ages of the children are respectively:—

	Males.	Females.
Under 5 years ...	12,901	13,065
Between 5 and 10 ...	10,170	10,034
Between 10 and 15...	7,925	7,284
Making a total of	30,996	and 30,383

18. The following appears to have been the distribution of the population of the Colony on the 26th April, viz.:—City of Melbourne and sea-port towns (Table VI.), 65,251 males, and 45,383 females; total (including 14 whose sex was not specified), 110,648 persons. On the gold fields, 52,542 males, and 14,152 females; total (including 3 sex unspecified), 66,697 persons. Population of the inland towns and rural districts, 38,083 males, and 21,365 females; total (including 5 persons sex unspecified), 59,453 persons.

19. The population of the City of Melbourne within the boundaries of the six wards (Bourke, Fitz Roy, Gipps', Hotham, La Trobe, and Lonsdale), was returned at 53,235 persons of all ages, of whom 21,096 were females, and 32,134 were males, besides 5 sex unspecified. The metropolis may practically be considered to comprise the inhabitants of Collingwood, Richmond, Prahran, Flemington, and vessels in the Yarra Yarra, which will make the aggregate population of Melbourne and its suburbs amount to 76,565 persons.

20. The number of inhabitants at Geelong is returned at 20,324 persons, of whom 11,272 were males and 9,043 were females; there were 9 whose sex was unspecified.

21. No note appears to have been taken of the aboriginal tribes, with the exception of a very few individuals who were employed on stations, and who are returned accordingly. The estimated number of aborigines is stated to be about 2,500, but no certain information respecting them has been obtained.

22. Table IV., shewing the population in the Electoral Districts of the Legislative Assembly under the New Constitution Act, presents some particulars which will be interesting in the consideration of the representative system, when viewed as based on numbers. Table I. also may not be without its value as bearing on the land question.

23. I venture to express my hope that Table VII., shewing the population of the Towns and Villages of Victoria, will be found acceptable; it may perhaps serve as the foundation for some future Gazetteer of the Colony, and in the meantime will afford the means of a ready reference as to the Counties and Electoral Districts in which they are situated.

24. It now only remains for me, in conclusion, in order to make a practical application of the Census, to bring down the enumeration of the people to the latest period, and the following statement will shew the actual population of the Colony at the commencement of the present year, so far as the same can be calculated from the Census of 1854, the Immigration Agent's subsequent returns, and the registers of births and deaths.

By the Census Returns there were on the 26th	Males.	Females.	Totals *

The ascertained population of Victoria on the 1st January, 1855, consisted therefore of 273,792 persons of all ages.

I have the honor to be,

Sir,

Your most obedient humble Servant,

NORMAN CAMPBELL,

Registrar General.

The Honorable,
The Colonial Secretary.
